MACA's Art Students Attend ASCI Fine Arts Festival

Mrs. Bouslog and five of her art students attended the 2016 ASCI Fine Arts Festival at Messiah College on Tuesday, March 8. While only five students were able to attend the event, eight MACA artists submitted their original art pieces in the competition. The results of the competition were:

- Good Ratings: Abby Forsberg, Willis Gammell, Emma Magnuson, Anneliese Ott, Savannah Schaefer and Andrew Schrider.
- Excellent Ratings: Mackenzie Hunt and Keirra Shaffer

While their submissions were being judged, students attended work-shops which were conducted by Messiah College art instructors. Sample work-shops they attended include monotype printmaking and constructing clay stones. The clay stone workshop was designed around an on-going, ever-changing installation on the campus of Messiah College titled "Community." Clay stones made during the festival by the MACA students will be added to the site on the College campus.

Mrs. Bouslog reports that it was a great trip and she highly recommends any student interested in art plan to attend next year's festival. The event is open to all MACA students, not just those enrolled in art. Attendees are able to walk through the art exhibit and view art work submitted by students from hundreds of other high schools throughout the northeast region. "It definitely was an inspiring day for me as an instructor," stated Bouslog. "It was great to see the ability with which God has blessed so many young people." Congrats go out to Mrs. Bouslog and our talented students!

MACA Senior Class Missions Trip: March 17-24

As many of you know, each year the seniors at Mount Airy Christian Academy go on a week-long missions trip to Costa Rica. As the trip approaches, we are growing more excited. We are looking for small items to give away while we are there such as pens, used clothes, bouncy balls, small toys, etc. If you or someone you know has an excess of such things and is willing to donate them, we would love to take them to Costa Rica with us. Items used by businesses as promotional tools, would work great. Please turn in your donations to Pastor Carl no later than Tuesday morning, March 15.
